113. (C) Comment: CPDH has reported that they and their families have received repeated death threats because of its involvement in the Miskito cases. Thus far, the police have failed to investigate despite specific evidence. Further, CPDH has alleged discrimination by the Supreme Court (CSJ) and the Supreme Electoral Council (CSE). In October, the CSJ refused to certify the testimonies of Miskito witnesses to be used in the IACHR case and the CSE refused to accredit CPDH's electoral observers for the November presidential elections.

ALN Alliance or Independence?

114. (C) Miskito leaders admitted that their experience with the ALN has been disappointing and they may form their own party for the 2008 municipal elections. On a previous occasion, Coleman admitted to poloff that the ALN had not supported him during a contentious fight for the 3rd deputy slot in the RAAN and he told the Ambassador that the ALN has failed to take action against the growing presence of the FSLN in the RAAN. Coleman stressed that Miskito leaders still prefer an alliance with the ALN, but one that recognizes their indigenous identity.

Fighting Back - Opportunities for Assistance

115. (C) The Miskito leaders insist that they will continue their struggle to maintain their Miskito identity and to preserve their past, but admitted that they have virtually no resources and cannot compete with the mounting Sandinista campaign. The leaders urged the U.S. to take action before it is too late and stressed that the Miskitos are loyal to the memory of past USG programs and are yearning for any sign of support. Of paramount importance, they pointed out, is organizing and uniting the Miskito communities to re-enforce the importance of democracy and remind them of the Sandinista's past atrocities. Other ideas discussed during the meeting included:

- Creating a war memorial to honor those who died during the Miskito resistance against the Sandinistas in the 1980s

- Offering medical services in Puerto Cabezas and more remote areas of the RAAN. Ambassador suggested using the medical ship (USNS Comfort), or reprogramming a MEDRETE mission to the RAAN.

- Providing basic equipment and technical support to the fishing, agriculture, and livestock sectors using available programs and organizations (AID, CAFTA, NGOs, etc.)

- Funding the few established liberal NGOs in the RAAN (such as FURCA) and assisting in the creation of additional NGOs to support veterans and other influential groups

- Encouraging participation in exchange programs, such as the CASS-Georgetown program and the Wisconsin Partners Program

- Facilitating contact with international organizations, such as the Inter-American and Pan-American Foundations
